I. PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND SUBMISSIONS OF THE PARTIES

1. On 13 December 2011, the Mladić Defence (“Applicant”) filed a request for access (“Access Request”) to confidential materials from the case of Prosecutor v. Radislav Krstić (“Krstić case”)¹ in which it seeks access to all inter partes and ex parte confidential material from that case in the pre-trial and trial proceedings, including a) all confidential closed and private session trial transcripts; b) all confidential exhibits; c) all confidential filings and submissions, including all confidential Trial Chamber decisions; and d) all documentary evidence submitted by the parties.² The Applicant submits that there is a “significant geographical, temporal overlap as well as significant factual nexus” and that similarities exist in the accusations against the Accused in this case and the Krstić case.³ Further, the Applicant submits that the material is necessary for “full and adequate defence preparation” and that it is willing to comply with any order regarding witness protection or a regime of confidentiality for documents.⁴

2. On 27 December 2011, the Prosecution responded not opposing the Applicant’s request for access to “evidentiary confidential inter partes material for all categories ((a)-(d))”, provided that the Chamber modifies any existing protective measures and establishes conditions “to preserve the safety and security of witnesses and to guard against improper disclosure to third parties”.⁵ With regard to ex parte material, the Prosecution opposes the Access Request in its entirety.⁶

II. APPLICABLE LAW

3. The Chamber is seised of the Applicant’s Access Request pursuant to Rule 75 (G) (ii) of the Tribunal’s Rules of Procedure and Evidence (“Rules”) which states:

(G) A party to the second proceedings seeking to rescind, vary, or augment protective measures ordered in the first proceedings must apply:

² Defence Request for Access to Confidential Materials from Krstić Case, 13 December 2011, paras 1-2, 11. The Chamber notes that the Defence request relates only to confidential and ex parte material from the pre-trial and trial proceedings in the Krstić case, but sees no reason to exclude from the scope of this decision the appeals proceedings in the Krstić case.

³ Access Request, paras 5-8.

⁴ Access Request, paras 9-10.

⁵ Prosecution Response to Mladić Motion for Access to Confidential Materials in the Krstić Case, 27 December 2011 (“Prosecution Response”), paras 2, 9-11, 14-19. The Chamber notes that the Prosecution Response reiterates in para. 1 the categories set out by the Applicant in the Access Request identically save for the omission of the word “confidential” from “including all confidential Trial Chamber decisions” in category (c). The Chamber will proceed on the basis of the categories as set out in the Access Request.

⁶ Prosecution Response, paras 2, 13.

- (ii) if no Chamber remains seized of the first proceedings, to the Chamber seized of the second proceedings.

4. Rule 54 of the Rules provides that:

At the request of either party or proprio motu, a Judge or a Trial Chamber may issue such orders, summonses, subpoenas, warrants and transfer orders as may be necessary for the purposes of an investigation or for the preparation or conduct of the trial.

5. A party is always entitled to seek material from any source, including from another case before the International Tribunal, to assist in the preparation of its case if the material sought has been identified or described by its general nature and if a legitimate forensic purpose for such access has been shown.⁷ The Tribunal's jurisprudence concerning the identification requirement is not particularly onerous, and applicant requests for "all confidential material" are generally considered sufficiently specific to meet this standard.⁸ With regard to inter partes confidential material, the applicant party must demonstrate that such material "is likely to assist the [party's] case materially, or at least there is a good chance that it would".⁹ The "good chance" standard may be met by the establishment of a legitimate forensic purpose, demonstrated by the existence of a "geographical, temporal or otherwise material overlap"¹⁰ between the applicant's case and the case from which the material is sought.¹¹ The "good chance" standard, however, does not require that the applicant party "establish a specific reason that each individual item is likely to be useful".¹²

6. The Tribunal's jurisprudence has developed specific criteria which must be met for access requests to ex parte confidential material in another case before the Tribunal. The Appeals Chamber has held that "ex parte material, being of a higher degree of confidentiality, by nature contains information which has not been disclosed inter partes because of security interests of a State, other public interests, or privacy interests of a person or institution”¹³ and that “consequently, the party on whose behalf ex parte status has been granted enjoys a protected degree of trust that the ex parte material will not be disclosed”.¹⁴ It follows that an applicant must meet a higher standard when proving a legitimate forensic purpose in order to justify such disclosure.¹⁵

7. With regard to material that has been provided pursuant to Rule 70 of the Rules, the party that introduced the material must obtain the consent of the Rule 70 provider before the material or its source can be disclosed to another accused before the Tribunal. Such consent is necessary even if the Rule 70 provider has in one or more prior cases consented to the disclosure of the material.¹⁶

8. Once an applicant has been granted access to confidential exhibits and confidential closed and private session testimony transcripts from another case before the Tribunal, he or she should not be prevented from accessing filings, submissions, decisions, and hearing transcripts which may relate to such confidential material.¹⁷

9. It is necessary, however, for the Chamber to strike a reasonable balance between the rights of the accused and the protection of witnesses and victims.¹⁸ Further, pursuant to Rule 75 (F) (i) of the Rules, any protective measures ordered for a victim or witness in any proceedings before the Tribunal shall continue to have effect mutatis mutandis in any other proceedings before the Tribunal or another jurisdiction unless they are rescinded, varied, or augmented in accordance with the Rule.¹⁹

III. DISCUSSION

A. Access to Confidential Inter Partes Material

10. The Chamber is satisfied that the Applicant has identified with sufficient specificity the material it seeks and, further, the Chamber finds that there is a geographical and temporal nexus between this case and the Krstić case in relation to crimes alleged to have been committed in and around Srebrenica in 1995.²⁰

11. As noted in a previous decision of this Chamber, the general regime for access to confidential materials in other cases is liberal, but is not without exceptions.²¹ One such exception concerns material relating to protected witnesses for whom orders of delayed disclosure have been issued.²² Although it is possible that such material may have forensic value to the Applicant, the Chamber must weigh this against the safety and protection of victims and witnesses, pursuant to Articles 20 (1) and 22 of the Tribunal's Statute and Rule 75 (A) of the Rules. The Chamber is of the opinion that given the current stage of the proceedings, any such potential forensic value to the Applicant does not outweigh the aforementioned considerations and therefore this material will be excluded from any access granted by this decision.

12. The Chamber notes the Prosecution's concerns with respect to the Applicant accessing non-evidentiary material which "may contain sensitive information of little or no value" to the Applicant.²³ The Chamber is of the opinion that a limitation should be placed on access to such material. A recent decision of the Trial Chamber in Prosecutor v. Stanišić and Simatović identified categories of material having no forensic purpose and, therefore, such categories were excluded from the grant of access.²⁴ These categories included: remuneration; provisional release; fitness to stand trial; weekly reports of the Reporting Medical Officer; Registry submission of expert reports on health issues; notices of non-attendance in court; modalities of trial; protective measures; subpoenas; video-conference links; and orders to redact the public transcript and public broadcast of a hearing.²⁵ The Chamber similarly finds that the aforementioned categories of materials – except with medical reports not being limited to weekly reports – have no forensic purpose and, therefore, such material should be excluded from any access to confidential inter partes materials granted by this decision. Further, category (d) of the Access Request refers to "all documentary evidence submitted by the parties".²⁶ The Chamber interprets this category to mean material which has not been admitted into evidence. The Tribunal's jurisprudence establishes that grants for requests for disclosure have been limited to material officially admitted into evidence.²⁷ For example, the Trial Chamber in Prosecutor v. Momčilo Perisić noted that “confidential materials used during interviews but not tendered into evidence” could not be considered as “confidential exhibits” and, thus, found that it could only grant the request for disclosure in relation to exhibits whose admission was final.²⁸ Further, the Trial Chamber in Prosecutor v. Vlastimir Đorđević, found that in considering the motion for access to materials before it, it would be inappropriate to consider “material which it was merely anticipated might later be received in evidence”.²⁹ Therefore, insofar as this category is taken to relate to material not admitted into evidence, such material not forming part of the body of evidence and, thus, remaining in the domain of the tendering party,³⁰ the Chamber excludes such material from any access to confidential inter partes materials granted by this decision.

²⁴ Prosecutor v. Jovica Stanišić and Franko Simatović, Case No. IT-03-69-T, Decision on Motions of Mićo Stanišić and Stojan Župljanin for Access to All Confidential Materials in the Stanišić and Simatović Case, 10 March 2011 ("Stanišić and Simatović Access Decision"), para. 40.

²⁵ Stanišić and Simatović Access Decision, para. 40.

13. In relation to materials in the Krstić case provided pursuant to Rule 70 of the Rules, the Chamber considers that they must be excluded from any access granted through this decision, unless the provider of this material has consented to the disclosure of this material to the Applicant. It will be for the relevant party to identify to the Registry any such Rule 70 material and to seek any Rule 70 provider’s consent to disclosure in this respect.

B. Access to Ex Parte Confidential Material

14. The Applicant requests access not only to all inter partes confidential material but also to all ex parte confidential material from the Krstić case.³¹ In this respect the Chamber recalls the jurisprudence of the Tribunal, requiring the applicant party to meet a higher threshold for access to ex parte material.³² The Chamber considers that in this context the Applicant has failed to advance any argument which demonstrates a legitimate forensic purpose. Thus, the Applicant’s request for access to all ex parte confidential material is to be denied.

IV. DISPOSITION

15. For the foregoing reasons and pursuant to Rules 54 and 75 of the Rules, the Chamber

GRANTS the Access Request in part;

²⁷ Prosecutor v. Vojislav Šešelj, Case No. IT-03-67-T, Decision on Mićo Stanišić Motion for Disclosure of Exhibit List and “MFI” Materials from Šešelj Case (IT-03-67), 1 August 2011 (“Šešelj Motion”), para. 15.
